Coca-Cola is one of the world's most powerful and profitable corporations. Yet, despite repeated pleas for help, the corporation has not found the time or resources to insure the most basic safety of its workers or prevent massive environmental devastation in the communities where it does business. In Colombia SINALTRAINAL, the trade union that represents Coke workers have suffered the assassination of 8 of their leaders, killed by paramilitaries allegedly hired by Coca Cola management. In India, Coke stands accused of draining and poisoning the water people need to survive.
